

Problem

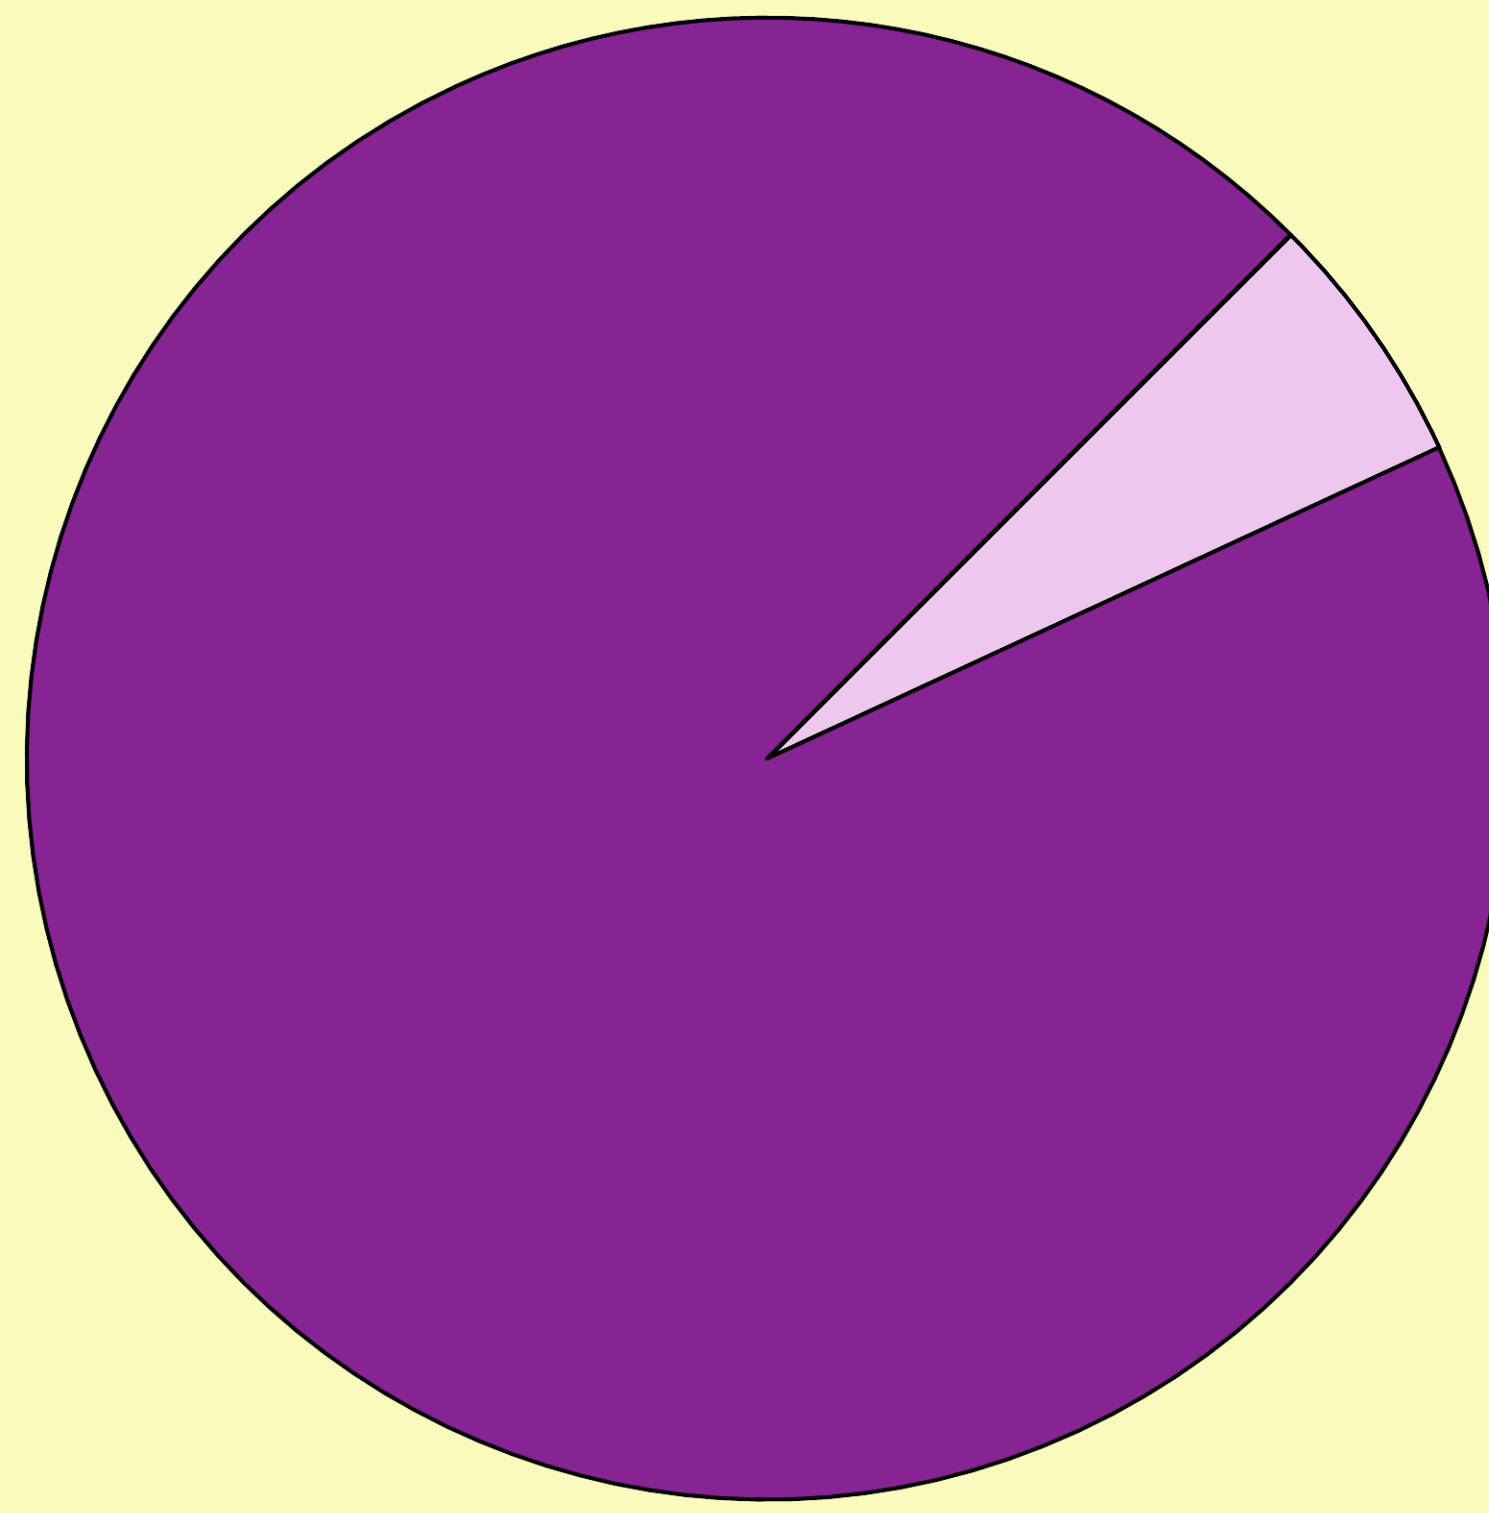

- STEM students do not focus on writing
- Few GPS students utilize the Writing Center

Solution

- Increase GPS student awareness of Writing Center

7 out of 125 GPS Students Surveyed Used the Writing Center

- Students that have not used the Writing Center
- Students that have used the Writing Center

What is the Writing Center?

- Uses student-trained tutors
- Edits and discusses papers one-on-one with student
- Goal is to both improve paper and fundamental writing skills
- Located in Daniels Hall

Out of 326 Students Who Have Gone to the Writing Center

Presentation to GPS Classes

- Why writing in STEM is important
- What the Writing Center is about
- Writing Center Use Statistics
- Advice to using Writing Center

Assessments

- Survey of 125 GPS students about use of the Writing Center
- Interview with Professor Madan, director of the Writing Center

Conclusion

- Some GPS professors agreed to use presentation on Writing Center
- Writing Center is willing to collaborate with GPS classes

Deliverables

- Memo to GPS teachers and Writing Center
- Propose presentation about Writing Center in GPS classes
- Provide sample presentation

96%

Found quality of sessions Excellent or Good

98%

Would recommend the WC to a friend

97.5%

Felt the session either greatly or partly helped their paper

95%

Felt the session either greatly or partly helped their writing skills

References

Cheatle, J., & Bullerjahn, M. (2015). Undergraduate Student Perceptions and the Writing Center. WLN: A Journal of Writing Center Scholarship, 40(1-2), 19-26.
 Duboc, J. (2011). Six Literacies: The importance of strong writing and reading skills in a digital world. Elearn Magazine.
 Rafoth, B. (2010). Why visit your campus writing center? Writing Spaces: Readings on Writing, 1, 146-155.
 R. Madan, Personal Communication, November 18th, 2016
 Madan, Ryan, F.M. (2016). Writing Center Collaboration Needs Communication. Worcester, Massachusetts: Ryan Madan